

Northumberland Echo

March 12, 2014

Getting away with laughter and applause

Sitting (from left) are Christina Thompson and Kathryn Ballentine Shepherd; standing (from left) are Frank Connelly, Sean Thompson, Marcia Peters, Dan Peters and Michael Bruner

“The Westmoreland Players current production Getting Away with Murder isn’t so much a ‘whodunit’ as a ‘Howcome he dunit’ because the killer is pretty well established by the end of the first act. That makes the play more interesting than the usual search for the butler in a room full of suspects...

*The entire large cast is spot-on with their performances although several stand out. Kathryn Ballentine Shepherd’s mousy near-hysterical must have done her research in a hysterics’ ward at a mental hospital”